No turns at Stony Plain Road/Anthony Henday intersection starting July 6

Edmonton... Motorists are advised that there will be access closures to and from Stony Plain Road and Anthony Henday Drive starting July 6 to complete construction of the Stony Plain Road interchange. At that time, traffic will only be able to travel north and south along Anthony Henday Drive, and east and west along Stony Plain Road. All turns at the intersection will be closed.

Access will be re-opened in stages throughout the summer and full access to Stony Plain Road at Anthony Henday will be restored by mid-October. Ongoing updates will be issued as progress is made and routes are re-opened.

Motorists are advised to use 170 Street, 178 Street, and Highway 60 as alternate routes. Yellowhead Drive and Whitemud Drive can also be used as alternate routes to access Stony Plain Road and 100 Avenue via the cross-streets of 170 Street, 178 Street, and Highway 60.

Alberta Transportation is working closely with the City of Edmonton to minimize traffic disruptions to motorists for the Henday construction at Stony Plain Road, along with construction work underway in west Edmonton at Lessard Road, Callingwood Road and Cameron Heights.

We appreciate the patience of all motorists. Motorists should also use caution in these areas and obey all signs and message boards. Motorists are reminded that fines for speeding are doubled through construction zones when workers are present.
