Signal lights removed from Stoney Trail-Crowchild Trail interchange in Calgary

Calgary... Motorists may now enjoy free-flow conditions on the Stoney Trail-Crowchild Trail interchange in northwest Calgary.

The signal lights have been removed from the interchange and all ramps and exits are now open to free-flowing traffic.

Motorists are advised that there still will be construction activities on and around the interchange and that some speed restrictions still remain. Motorists should use caution in this area and obey all signs, message boards, and flag people. Fines for speeding are doubled in construction zones when workers are present.
